Facilities, Equipment and Other Resources

The proposed research is in pure mathematics and requires no laboratory facilities or specialized equipment. Its needs are office space, access to the mathematical literature, and an active research community, all of which are available at the host institution.